

Beckett (1906-1989)

“There is so little one can say, one says it all. All one can. And no truth in it anywhere”.

Samuel Beckett, Happy Days (James Knowlson ed., Faber & Faber 2010 [1961]), p. 30.

“What can one do but speculate, speculate, until one hits on the happy speculation?”

Samuel Beckett, The Unnamable (Sean Connor ed., Faber & Faber 2010 [1958]), p. 85.

“Ever tried. Ever failed. No matter. Try again. Fail again. Fail better”.

Samuel Beckett, Worstward Ho, in Company/III Seen III Said/Worstward Ho/Stirrings Still (Dirk Van Hulle ed., Faber & Faber 2009 [1983]), p. 81.